Giulio Tarro, MD, Ph.D., Presented with the Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award by Marquis Who's Who

Dr. Tarro has been endorsed by Marquis Who's Who as a leader in the medical industry

NAPLES, ITALY, September 1, 2018 — Marquis Who's Who, the world's premier publisher of biographical profiles, is proud to present Giulio Tarro, MD, Ph.D., with the Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award. An accomplished listee, Dr. Tarro celebrates many years of experience in his professional network, and has been noted for achievements, leadership qualities, and the credentials and successes he has accrued in his field. As in all Marquis Who's Who biographical volumes, individuals profiled are selected on the basis of current reference value. Factors such as position, noteworthy accomplishments, visibility, and prominence in a field are all taken into account during the selection process.

With more than 40 years of professional experience, Dr. Tarro has been retired since 2007. Prior to his retirement, he held a number of positions with the D. Cotugno Hospital for Infectious Diseases, including head of diagnostic laboratories from 2003 to 2006, president of the ethics committee from 1998 to 2007, and chief of virology from 1973 to 2006. In addition to his primary roles, he was a professor of microbiology, oncologic virology, and immunology at the Università degli Studi di Napoli Federico II from 1971 to 2006, and an assistant professor of research pediatrics at the University of Cincinnati from 1968 to 1969. Earlier in his career, Dr. Tarro was a research associate of virology and cancer research at Cincinnati Children's Hospital Medical Center from 1965 to 1968 and a research fellow and chief at the Consiglio Nazionale delle Ricerche from 1966 to 1974, where he was also an assistant in medical pathology from 1964 to 1966.

Dr. Tarro began his career with the Università degli Studi di Napoli Federico II, where he obtained a Doctor of Medicine in 1962, completed postgraduate coursework in nervous diseases in 1968, and earned a Doctor of Philosophy in virology in 1971. He subsequently joined the Roman Academy, completing postgraduate coursework in medical and biological sciences in 1979. Dr. Tarro also holds an honorary degree of immunology from St. Theodora Academy, in bioethics from the Constantinian University, in biomedical technologies from ASAM University, and in social sciences from Bonake University.

Throughout his career, Dr. Tarro has been recognized for his contributions. He received a Wojtila-Roncalli International Award, the Rilancio Italia Award, the International Prize, the International Peace Award, and the Global Education Sanremo Award. The recipient of a Gold Coliseum Award, he received Knight of the Grand Cross from the Cernetic Imperial Order and Gold Medals from the Royal House of Maharaja Adinda Aranana, the Norman Academy, and for 50 Years as an MD. Dr. Tarro has been featured in multiple editions of Who's Who in Finance and Business, Who's Who in Finance and Industry, Who's Who in America, Who's Who in Medicine and Healthcare, Who's Who in Science and Engineering, and Who's Who in the World.

In recognition of outstanding contributions to his profession and the Marquis Who's Who community, Dr. Tarro has been featured on the Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement website. Please visit www.ltachievers.com for more information about this honor.

Brad Bennett

Brad grew up in a small town in northern Iowa. He studied chemistry in college, graduated, and married his wife one month later. They were then blessed with two baby boys within the first four years of marriage. Having babies gave their family a desire to return to the old paths – to nourish their family with traditional, homegrown foods; rid their home of toxic chemicals and petroleum products; and give their boys a chance to know a simple, sustainable way of life. They are currently building a homestead from scratch on two little acres in central Texas. There's a lot to be done to become somewhat self-sufficient, but they are debt-free and get to spend their days living this simple, good life together with their five young children.

Tarro miglior virologo dell'anno. Il riconoscimento dell'iaotp

Giulio Tarro, MD, Ph.D., Capo, Divisione di Virologia e Presidente del Comitato Etico per l'Ospedale D. Cotugno per le Malattie Infettive, è stato recentemente selezionato come Virologist of the Year dall'Associazione Internazionale dei Migliori Professionisti (IAOTP), per la sua eccezionale leadership ed impegno nel settore.

Mentre l'inclusione con l'Associazione internazionale dei migliori professionisti è in sé un onore, solo pochi membri in ogni disciplina vengono scelti per questa distinzione. Questi premi speciali si distinguono in base ai successi professionali, risultati accademici, capacità di leadership, longevità sul campo, altre affiliazioni e contributi alla comunità. Tutti i premiati sono invitati a partecipare al gala annuale della IAOTP alla fine di quest'anno per una serata in onore dei loro successi.

Con oltre 5 decenni di esperienza professionale in Medicina ed Istruzione, il dott. Tarro ha sicuramente dimostrato di essere un abile ed esperto professionista del settore. In qualità di leader ha dimostrato di avere successo non solo come medico, ma anche come professore, scienziato e tenente colonnello della marina italiana. Il suo impressionante repertorio di ruoli ricoperti includono il Research Associate per la Divisione di Virologia e Cancer Research del Children's Hospital Research Foundation, Assistant Professor di Pediatria della Università di Cincinnati College of Medicine, Primo Ricercatore dell'Italian National Research Council, Professore di Virologia Oncologica dell'Università di Napoli, Direttore del Progetto per il National Cancer Institute, Professore di Microbiologia e Immunologia presso la Scuola di Specializzazione in Nefrologia Medica dell'Università di Napoli, Senior Scientist del Frederick Cancer Research Center, Professore a contratto del Dipartimento di Biologia, responsabile scientifico del Center for Biotechnology College of Science and Technology del Temple University. Le sue aree di competenza includono Virologia murina, Chemioterapia antivirale, Effetti degli inibitori sulla replicazione virale, studi sul ruolo di herpesvirus nel cancro, Immunologia tumorale e Patologia dell'AIDS.

Il Dott. Tarro ha conseguito la Laurea in Medicina e ha conseguito il diploma di Specializzazione in Malattie Nervose e Mentali, laureandosi con Summa Cum Laude all'Università di Napoli. Nel 1971 ha ottenuto la sua cattedra in Virologia a Roma. Il Presidente della IAOTP, Stephanie Cirami, ha dichiarato che "La scelta del Dr. Tarro per questo premio è stata una decisione facile per il nostro panel. È brillante, la sua lista di successi e riconoscimenti è oltremodo impressionante, è attivo in numerose organizzazioni e affiliazioni, era esattamente quello che stavamo cercando. Sappiamo che vedremo cose eccezionali da quest'uomo e spero di passare del tempo con lui al gala". Nel corso della sua illustre carriera, il dott. Tarro è stato attivo nella sua comunità ed è riconosciuto in tutto il mondo per la sua eccezionale leadership e impegno nel campo della virologia. Ha ricevuto numerosi riconoscimenti ed è apparso in numerose pubblicazioni. Per il 2019, il dott. Tarro sarà considerato nella rivista TIP (Top Industry Professionals) e per il Lifetime Achievement Award dall'Associazione internazionale dei migliori professionisti (IAOTP).

Per il 2018, oltre ad essere stato selezionato come miglior virologo dell'anno dall'Associazione internazionale dei migliori professionisti (IAOTP), ha ricevuto il Premio alla carriera Albert Nelson Marquis. Nel 2012 ha ricevuto il Premio Internazionale Le Muse Florence, la medaglia d'oro Aranan della Royal House membro dell'AAAS e nel 2011 ha ricevuto l'International Peace Award e il Global Education Sanremo Award. Nel 2010 il Dr. Tarro ha ricevuto il Premio Nazionale di solidarietà di Fratres St. Giovanni La Punta e nel 2009 il Lifetime Achievement Award di Sbarro Health Research Organization. Nel 1987 ha ricevuto il Primo Premio in Ricerca Biomedica dall'Accademia Italiana delle Arti e delle Scienze, solo per citarne alcuni.

Oltre alla sua carriera di successo, il Dr. Tarro è anche un ricercato docente, relatore, detiene oltre 17 brevetti. È autore e coautore di oltre 500 articoli su riviste specializzate e capitoli di libri. Il Dr. Tarro ha ricoperto numerosi ruoli di leadership con organizzazioni professionali, tra cui Life President di Teresa e Luigi de Beaumont Fondazione Bonelli per la ricerca sul cancro, Coordinatore scientifico della Ipertermia porosa in pazienti HCV, Presidente del Centro tecnologico ed ecologico campano, vicepresidente e segretario generale del comitato consultivo Scintif di Unihart Biotech Pharma, membro del comitato etico dell'Ospedale oncologico della Basilicata, presidente del comitato per le biotecnologie e VirusSphrere, World Academy of Biomedical Technologies.

Guardando indietro, il dott. Tarro attribuisce il suo successo alla sua esperienza, all'educazione, ai mentori che ha avuto lungo la strada e alla passione per tutti i suoi sforzi. Il dottor Tarro dice di essere stato benedetto, ama fare quello che sta facendo e sente che questo è solo l'inizio. Quando non lavora, ama passare il tempo con la sua famiglia e viaggiare. Per il futuro, il dottor Tarro spera di continuare a fare la differenza nella vita delle persone in ogni caso.

Dr. Giulio Tarro

of the Medical Community*

Classified among the World Health Organization's list of the most current pressing pandemic and epidemic diseases, influenza, yellow fever and smallpox are all caused by viruses that spread through human interaction and can have devastating effects on entire populations. As a virologist and former professor who has contributed nearly 500 articles and papers to scientific journals, Giulio Tarro maintains research interests in antiviral chemotherapy, cancer immunotherapy, and the pathology of AIDS to bring about medical advancements.

The recipient of an MD and a Ph.D. in virology from the University of Naples, Dr. Tarro began his career as a medical pathology assistant for the institution before a brief period spent as an assistant professor and pediatric cancer research associate in Cincinnati, Ohio. He returned to Italy and resumed working for the University of Naples, first as a professor of oncologic virology and then as a professor of microbiology and immunology from 1972 through 2006. During this time, he also served as chief of the division of virology and president of the ethics committee at the D. Cotugno Hospital for Infectious Diseases, from which he retired in 2006.

In addition to his several academic appointments, Dr. Tarro has lectured worldwide at scientific conferences and committee meetings, and held leadership roles in organizations with which he is affiliated, including the Italian Society of Immuno-Oncology, the American Society for Microbiology, and The New York Academy of Sciences, of which he is a fellow. Considered an expert on the flu virus, he is also credited for his detection of the respiratory syncytial virus (RSV) as a factor in infant deaths in Naples and discovery of tumor-liberated proteins as tumor-associated antigens.

Dr. Tarro is a highly respected member of the medical community who has won several awards for his contributions to the profession, including First Prize in Biomedical Research from the Italian Academy of Arts and Sciences and a Lifetime Achievement Award from the Sbarro Health Research Organization.
